November features update

We've made some enhancements to SurfSeller which will be coming your way in the next few days.

Stock allocation

- Bundles now apply the latest "Pre-sale date" where used for one or more bundle components.

- In the last update we added new stock allocation profiles and we've now extended this feature to offer two profiles determined by the amount of stock held in the fulfilment location for the product and country.
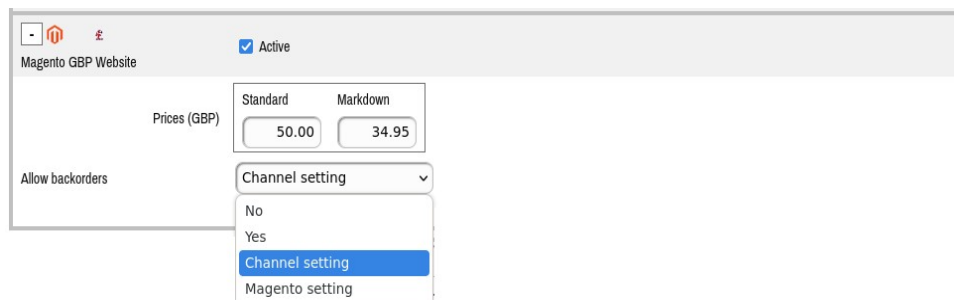

Settings > Merchant settings
Home currency	GBP		Financial year end month	12
Normal Stock Allocation Profile	Balanced
Low Stock Allocation Profile	Conservative	where stock falls below 50

Product catalogue

- Channel settings for Magento 2 and eBay variant groups are at the group level and no longer need to be set up for each child. Variant groups are considered a beta feature.

- Additional sanity checks on prices and ranges

- Woo-commerce, Magento 2 and Shopify backorder policy is now also selectable by product.

Magento GBP Website	☑ Active
Prices (GBP)	Standard 50.00	Markdown 34.95
Allow backorders	Channel setting
	No
	Yes
	Channel setting
	Magento setting

Product catalogue channels

- As well as general layout improvements, the "Channels" section of the product catalogue page has the following changes:
  - Collapsible channel sections

  - eBay item specifics increased to 20 pairs for standard, variant group and multi-listings

  - MSRP reinstated for upcoming Amazon recommendation and moved to channel level, so the price can be the one that applies to that market

  - Business Price added for Amazon channels

Other improvements

- Bulk update tools include MSRP, Business Price and backorder setting
- The location filter in many reports now includes drop ship suppliers
- Orders tagged "Cancel request" are shown in red in "Sales" >"Sold"
- Removed update of "Catalogue data source" in "Settings" > "Merchant settings" to eliminate the risk of accidental catalogue data loss

We hope you find these changes useful and thank you for using SurfSeller. We're here at care@shopcute.com and please remember we're collecting ideas for our new re-pricer at repricer@shopcuteideas.com.